

Call for Papers

Cognition, Emotion and Communication

University of Cyprus, Nicosia, 23 – 26 June 2011

The Department of French Studies and Modern Languages at the University of Cyprus and the research unit SYLED EA 2290 at the Sorbonne Nouvelle (University of Paris 3) are organizing an international conference on Emotions, Cognition and Communication with a special focus on:

- semantics of emotions in a cross-cultural perspective;
- emotion in cross-linguistic interactions;
- language acquisition and emotions.

The conference aims to bring together researchers interested in semantic issues related to emotions in cross-cultural settings or/and a cross-linguistic environment. We are interested in all linguistic focuses: lexical, syntactical, prosodical and morphological. Thus research could consider, for example, the prosodical specificities characterizing expression of the same emotion in different languages, or the lexical resources or the syntactical structures that are used, in various languages, to express an emotion. Both theoretical research (functional semantics, natural semantic metalanguage, etc.) and applied research (teaching emotions in a classroom for instance) are targeted in this conference.

Plenary Speakers:

Cliff Goddard (University of New England, Australia)
Claire Kramsch (University of California, Berkeley, USA)
Philippe Martin (University of Paris 7, France)
Aneta Pavlenko (Temple University, Philadelphia, USA)
Alain Polguère (Université de Nancy, ATILF, France)

Proposals are invited for individual papers (20 minutes) or panels on a particular theme (90 to 150 minutes). These may be in English or in French. Abstracts (300 words for individual papers, 600 words for panels) should be sent to fabienne@ucy.ac.cy and georgeta.cislaru@univ-paris3.fr
